Featured House and Pet Sitters

Care and attention is paramount for these house and pet sitters.

Matthew and Ayjan have great enthusiasm for house and pet sitting and say that the key to being called back for house and pet sitting positions is to leave homes in immaculate condition.

They have cared for a variety of animals such as dogs, cats, rabbits, birds and sometimes a combination of all of these animals!

They have a few years experience house and pet sitting and enjoy doing so to save while they work and study and have also considered house and pet sitting for holidays. They are available mainly in the inner west of Sydney, NSW but are also open to other house and pet sits as well.

Pet Corner

Recognising that your pet is getting older is the first step towards making sure they receive the right health care.

Take note of your pet's behaviour because this could give you signs of underlying age-related illness.

Changes in appetite, weight loss or gain, difficulty in moving or a change in sleep patterns could be signs of age-related problems.

It is best to have regular health care checks and be sure your pet receives a balanced diet that is lower in calories, protein and fat but higher in fibre. Monitor their weight and try to get them to enjoy regular walks or exercise to stimulate their minds and bodies.
