Caring for Pets: Managing Skin Conditions

PAW by Blackmores offers useful information to pet owners about pet health and also offer treatment options. According to PAW By Blackmores, skin problems are the second most common reason for pet owners to visit their vet. Here is some information that can be found on the PAW by Blackmores website.

Possible Causes of Skin Infections:

- Food allergies
- Flea allergies
- Eczema
- Allergens in the environment
- Bacteria and fungi

Sometimes, humans can be infected by bacteria from dogs with infected skin, so it's best to treat every skin irritation with caution and get it checked out as soon as possible.

Skin infections can also be a sign of an underlying health issue, so it is always best to have your dog or pet checked out by your vet if you have concerns or notice any unusual skin issues.
